

EGYPT BRITISH INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

Say no to bullying Theme 3

COMPLETION DATE: Nov 2018

REVIEW DATE: Nov 2018

SUPPORTS NATIONAL ANTI-BULLYING WEEK

Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack

Theme 3
Say no to bullying

Dedication

This book is dedicated to my parents, Anne and David. They have loved and supported me through my childhood, through the ups and downs of my (interesting) adolescence, through my marriage to my soulmate, Martin, and through the upbringing of my wonderful children: Richard, Mia, Holly and Scott (as well as that of several rather more haphazard arrivals in our home). I thank you for your love, for your kindness, for doing your best, and for your integrity. I love you both so much and don't tell you often enough.

© Julie Casey 2008. Please do not photocopy this book. We keep the price deliberately low so that all parents can benefit (and it will cost you more than buying it!).

The right of Julie Casey to be identified as the author of this work has been asserted by her in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

ISBN 978-0-9552073-3-4

For further copies please contact Futurelink Publishing on 0800 3345145 (fax 0800 3345146) or visit www.futurelinkpublishing.co.uk

Contents

	Page
How to use this booklet	2
An introduction to Anti-Bullying week and SEAL: 'Say no to bullying'	3
What is it like for parents? A case study	5
Why schools don't just get rid of bullies (A Fascinating Fact)	8
TOP TIPS: Preventing bullying	9
What is it like to be bullied? A case study from a Year 6 pupil	10
TOP TIPS: What to do if your child is being bullied	11
Quick Checklist: How do I know if my child is being bullied?'
Quick Checklist: Further steps to take if the bullying doesn't stop	14
TOP TIPS: What to do if your child knows bullying is going on	15
Why don't witnesses tell? (A Fascinating Fact)	15
TOP TIPS: What to do if your child is bullying others
Why do children bully? (A Fascinating Fact)	17
Cut Out and Keep Guide: Keep safe from cyber-bullying
Cut out and Keep Guide: Dealing with bullying by 'Fogging' (and some useful contacts to know)	21
Sample 'bully-diary' page	23
'My Notes' page	24
'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' Contents list  Inside	back cover
National Anti-Bullying Week and SEAL	Back cover

How to use this booklet

You might buy or be given this booklet by your child's school to help you to support the work that they are doing for National Anti-Bullying week, or as part of a pack entitled 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack', which links to the SEAL theme 'Say no to bullying'.

This booklet contains ideas and information for things that you can do at home to support your child, both during Anti-Bullying week or the SEAL 'Say no to bullying' theme and at any other time.

How can I help at home?

The most important things you can do to help your child to understand, help prevent, and deal with bullying are to:

- Know what your child will be learning about bullying at school (by reading this booklet for example!)
- Encourage and support them in trying out the skills they are learning at school
  - Model using non-bullying behaviour yourself, and showing respect for other people

This third role is probably the most difficult - unfortunately it is also the most important! Children are programmed to learn by watching, by trying out what they see others doing and by repeating behaviour that is rewarded.

Don't worry that your children are not listening to a word you say - worry that they are watching everything you do!

The chances are that you, like the author and your child's teachers, didn't learn these important skills at school - and this means that unless we do some learning too, we're going to find it hard to model the skills we want our children to develop.

One way to use this booklet is to read it through, then talk about the case studies, information and ideas with your child, using them to open up a discussion about bullying, and to let them know that you will be there to listen and support them at any time they need to talk. Keep the booklet available for reference - you never know when it might come in handy! Good luck!

An introduction to Anti-Bullying week and SEAL: 'Say no to bullying'

National Anti-Bullying week usually takes place at the end of November. Many schools link National Anti-Bullying Week with the SEAL* theme 'Say no to bullying' which usually takes place at the same time. 'Say no to bullying' is a little different from other SEAL themes you might be familiar with - it usually lasts one or two weeks, and might involve lots of different subjects (like art, dance, English, history) and activities.

This booklet links to both Anti-Bullying week and the SEAL theme. It tells you about the sort of things that your child will be learning at school about bullying and how you can help your child at home - it is useful to refer to whenever you have a concern about bullying.

Schools must by law have an anti-bullying policy (which tells you what the school will do if bullying is reported, and also what the school is doing to stop bullying happening in the first place). The SEAL and Anti-Bullying week work will be one part of what the school is doing to stop bullying. This work helps schools to stop bullying happening by:

- Making sure that all children and adults mean the same thing when they talk about bullying.
- Helping children to understand how bullying feels for the person being bullied.

* SEAL: Social and emotional aspects of learning.

- Making sure that all children feel OK about telling an adult when they know that bullying is going on.
- Making sure that all children know exactly what to do if they are being bullied, and feel confident that something will be done to stop it.
- Helping children enjoy, celebrate and respect the ways we are all different, as well as the ways in which we are similar, and to feel good about themselves.

In the Early Years Foundation Stage SEAL work, children learn to feel good about themselves and to respect others. In Years 1 and 2 (KS1) they explore how it feels to be bullied, in Years 3 and 4, they look at what they can do if they see bullying or know that it is going on (as a witness), and in Years 5 and 6, they learn about why people bully and how we can stop ourselves bullying and help others to do the same.

Find out about SEAL:

If you want to find out more about SEAL, ask your child's teacher how parents can become involved. You might be invited to SEAL assemblies, asked to help your child complete worksheets linked to the theme, or invited to take part in 'Family SEAL' workshops - a great opportunity to have fun, make friends and explore some of the ideas in the booklets more fully. If you would like to find out more about the other booklets in the pack, please do ask at the school or ring the publisher

What is it like for parents? A Case Study

There is something about knowing that your child is being bullied that brings out our most primitive protective instincts.

When my seven year old son (who has Asperger's Syndrome, which means among other things that he finds it difficult to make friends) asked me to write a note to a little girl who had just started at his school, inviting her to tea, I positively glowed with excitement at the prospect of his days being made happier by having a friend (a first!).

The little girl had played with him the day before, obviously not yet aware that it was the height of uncoolness to bother with the 'loser kid'. The next day at playtime, he plucked up the courage to give her the note I had written with such high hopes.

Immediately a group formed around her, whispering and giggling as he stood on the sidelines as always.

As I washed up later, he told me what had happened and asked me innocently - 'Why did she tear the note up and throw it on the ground mummy?'

Nearly seventeen years later I have tears in my eyes writing this.

All I wanted to do was to march up to the school, demanding that the child be removed immediately (or better still publicly flogged!). I was even ready to tell them that if something wasn't done straight away I would sort it out myself - and while I was at it, I would teach those children who had joined in with the cruelty a lesson they wouldn't forget as well!

What is it like for parents? A Case Study

Underneath the rage were layers of feelings - helplessness at not being able to help my beautiful, innocent son to stand up to these bullies, inadequacy (what sort of parent allowed this to happen to their son? What had we done wrong?) and even resentment and frustration with the difficulties he was born with that made these incidents so much a part of his life.

The second thing I desperately wanted to do was to find some magic words or advice that would protect him from it happening again. So I told him that bullying is just a part of life which builds character, and that if he ignored them they would stop. But they didn't, and I felt awful because now he felt even more frightened and alone - the only person he thought could help him hadn't been able to.

My friends were full of advice - tell him to fight back, to stand up to them, to shout 'sticks and stones may break my bones...'.

He tried, but they were stronger and there were more of them. They laughed at his efforts and he came home and sobbed, feeling worse than before. Now he said he felt like a double failure - once for being bullied, and again for not being able to stop it.

What is it like for parents? A Case Study

And so we suggested that he change whatever it was about him that was causing him to be bullied - maybe his clothes, his hair? Could he try harder to fit in? But new clothes and a haircut made no difference

When I found myself trying to teach him a new way to walk (the latest thing wrong with him, in their eyes), it dawned on me that no matter what he did they would always find something new to pick on. It was them who had to change!

I often think how different my son's time at school might have been if National Anti-Bullying week and SEAL had been around. Would someone have challenged the fact that he was never included in playground games? Might he have had at least one friend if they had been taught to understand difference in a more positive way? Might some children have found the courage to stand up to those who were whispering and giggling? Might the children have thought twice about their behaviour if they understood how it felt to be bullied? I think the answer is yes and welcome SEAL and Anti-Bullying week because of it

If your child is being bullied: www.parentlineplus.org.uk (Tel: 0808 800 2222)

Pause for Thought

Between 15 and 25 children commit suicide every year because of bullying - it's up to us - all of us, schools and parents, to do something about it.

Fascinating Fact...

Why schools don't just get rid of bullies ...

Parents are often surprised when schools don't automatically exclude children who are bullying others. Of course, as parents, our first concern will always be for our own child's safety and happiness. It is natural to ask why the school seems to want to work with their tormentors instead of getting rid of them.

There are three reasons. Firstly, if schools excluded every child guilty of bullying, they might have very few children left! The majority of children have been bullied, seen bullying and bullied themselves. There is no evidence that children are born 'bullies' or 'victims' - they change roles according to where they are and who they are with.

Secondly, if schools simply move the problem on to another school, others will continue to suffer. Surely the best thing to do is to deal with the problem and try to stop the child from bullying altogether? Of course, the school will always have the right to exclude them if their efforts don't change the situation. But the third, and most important, reason is that there are ways of changing bullying behaviour. Helping them to understand their target's feelings and the effect of their behaviour on them (developing their empathy), teaching them to stand up to peer pressure from others, giving them support to manage the problems they are facing in their own lives – all of these things can change bullying behaviour for good.

So when you feel like the parent in the case study, try to understand what the school is doing, and why. When children who are bullied are asked what they want to happen they very rarely mention punishing the other child or revenge, they almost always say:

'I just want it to stop'.

Maybe we should think the same way!

TOP TIPS: Preventing bullying (Top Tips 5)

Quick Checklist: What bullying is (and isn't!).

In SEAL your child will learn that bullying :

- 1. ...goes on for a while, or happens regularly.
- 2. ....is deliberate. The other person wants to hurt, humiliate or harm the target.
- 3. ....involves someone (or several people) who are stronger in some way than the person being bullied. The person doing the bullying has more power; they are older, stronger, there are more of them or they have some 'hold' over the target (e.g. they know a secret about them).

Because these three things have to happen together for something to be called 'bullying', they will learn that bullying is not:

- · A one-off fight or argument
- · A friend sometimes being nasty
- · An argument with a friend

- Be a good role-model in the way you talk about and treat others your child will learn that everybody deserves respect.

- Model empathy for others talk about how other people might feel in different situations: in real-life, TV programmes, books, films, and play.
- Talk openly about what bullying is and how it feels see the check-list above and use the case studies.
- Make it safe for children to talk about bullying let them know you won't make them feel silly whatever their worries.<sup>1</sup>
- Talk to children about different sorts of bullying. As well as physical harm, threats and taking stuff, it can include namecalling, leaving someone out (exclusion), rumour spreading or forcing children to do something they don't want to do.
  All of these can be as hurtful and humiliating as physical bullying.
- Teach them how to avoid electronic (cyber) bullying. See the Cut Out and Keep guide on page 19.

<sup>1</sup> Top Tips 3 and 14 from 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' offer more information on this.

What's it like to be bullied? A Year 6's story

They say that bullying is worse when they kick you or punch you, or if they take your stuff - but at least people understand that. The way they do it, it seems like nothing to anyone else. How can I tell my teacher? I can see it now....

They give me dodgy looks before playtime

So, they, er... look at you? Hmm – do you think you might be being a bit oversensitive?

They look straight at me and fall about laughing

I'm sure it's just a bit of fun... Have you tried joining in with the laughing?

They mutter names under their breath when I walk past

Well, I really don't think they do... I have never heard either of them use those words – they are such nice boys...

They 'accidentally' bump into me

Come on now, a little bit of rough and tumble never hurt anyone.

How can I explain that one sort of bullying is no worse than another – the fact is that I feel sick before I come to school, that I will find any excuse not to go out to play, that I hate it when the teacher has to leave the room, and jump at the slightest movement even when I'm at home in my room. Now I've got my mobile it's even worse – I used to feel safe at home – now they can get me anywhere.

The thing is, you live in constant fear; it's like before a test or an exam, a dread in the stomach, a physical sickness. You never know what they're going to do or when - sometimes it's almost better when it's happening because that awful anxiety is over for the moment. You can't concentrate at school, and you feel like such a loser because you just can't seem to stop it. People tell you to stand up to them (how?), to fight back (if I could do that they probably wouldn't be picking on me in the first place), to say something clever (yeah, right). Even my old mates join in with the laughter sometimes. It feels like there's no way out. Worst of all - I feel completely alone.

TOP TIPS: What to do if your child is (Top Tips 6) being bullied

- Your child may not tell you that he or she is being bullied.
   If you suspect it is happening, look out for the signs (see the check-list below).
- If your child tells you they are being bullied, keep calm². Getting angry and threatening to visit the school or parent of the other child will terrify your child further. Try to avoid the automatic responses that we tend to have (see 'What is it like for parents?' P.5.). These tend to focus on what should happen to the bully, and about how your child should change themselves. This can confirm to them that they are somehow to blame for the bullying. THEY ARE NOT!

Quick Checklist: How do I know if my child is being bullied?

If you think your child is being bullied, look out for:

- · behaviour changes,
- · withdrawal,
- · not wanting to go to school,
- lots of stomach-aches, headaches or non-specific illness.

Sometimes these ailments will be real, and sometimes they may be made-up - but whether the illness is real or not, the worry certainly is, so it needs to be taken seriously.

Help your child to talk to you. Use books and TV plots to open discussions about bullying. With younger children puppets are a good way to help them talk about their worries and feelings.

 $<sup>^{2}</sup>$  Top Tips 13 from 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' offers more information on how to do this.

TOP TIPS: What to do if your child is (Top Tips 6) being bullied (continued)

- Praise your child for telling you and reassure them that they have done the right thing in letting you know what is happening.
- Remind children of how they can manage their feelings, e.g. talking, relaxing, exercising, distracting themselves<sup>3</sup>.
- Use your best listening skills<sup>4</sup>. Accept your child's feelings, encourage them to talk about their worries by listening, and don't belittle what they are going through - however minor it may seem to you the feelings are very real for them.

Oh, come on, it's not that bad - she only looked at you.

- Don't jump in with advice or try to immediately solve the problem for them. Listen to their ideas, and unless they are likely to end up in serious danger or trouble, agree to let them try out their ideas.
- If you tell your child to fight back, or say something 'clever' to the people they may well end up feeling twice as bad. They might get into trouble, they might get ooohhh...aren't break my bones...

well...you're going to find out then aren't you...

hurt, they might be laughed at more, and they will feel a double failure - not only are they bullied, but they have failed to stop it as well.

&lt;sup>3</sup> Top Tips 14 from 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' offers more information on how to do this.
<sup>4</sup> Top Tips 3 from 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' offers more information on how to do this.

TOP TIPS: What to do if your child is (Top Tips 6) being bullied (continued)

'Well, that's all very well but what am I supposed to do when they start on me?'.

FOR BRIDG ME

- Bullying destroys our confidence, so if your child is being bullied, work doubly hard to help them feel valued and important<sup>5</sup>.
- Help your child to think about what they would like to happen, and ask how you can help. Don't rush this step (unless you feel that as an adult you MUST take action)*.
- Teach your child 'fogging'. It is outlined in the Cut Out and Keep Guide on page 21.
- If the bullying carries on after your child has tried out their own strategies, and any that you agree together, there are further steps that you can take - see the checklist on the next page.

 $<sup>^{5}</sup>$  Top Tips 1 from 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' offers more information on how to do this.

Quick Checklist: Further steps to take if the bullying doesn't stop

Collect any evidence, e.g. keep a diary of who did what, exactly what they said or did, how often it happened, when and where; keep any text messages, emails, website comments or posting.

- Alert the school. Make sure you talk to your child before you do this but be clear that this is what you must do. Agree with your child when the best time is for you to go (maybe when the children have gone home), as they will worry that this will make things worse.
- When you talk to the school, stay calm and give specific details from the diary you have kept (names, dates and places). Ask what they will do about it and also what they would advise you to do. Remember that you are partners and both want the best for your child, so do your best not to fall out with the school - this NEVER makes things better!
- You have a right to ask for the anti-bullying policy (all schools have to have one by law) and look at it together to make a plan to tackle your worries. Make sure the plan includes follow-ups, so that you know when you will see or hear from them again.
- If, after you have made the plan with the school and followed it up, you are still not happy with the situation, you have a right to contact the school governors. If this does not help, the next step would be to contact the local authority who will have a person who deals with anti-bullying to advise you on any further action.

TOP TIPS: What to do if your child knows (Top Tips 7) bullying is going on #### Fascinating Fact .. Why don't witnesses tell?

Nine times out of ten bullying involves witnesses. So why don't they stop it, or tell? Children tell us that even when they feel upset or angry about the bullying, they don't tell because:

- * They worry that they will become targets themselves
- * It is not cool to be seen as a 'grass'
- * It is hard to go against the crowd

And yet, the evidence shows that the more children tell about any bullying they see going on, the less it happens.

We need to help our children to feel safe to tell us, and adults at school, if they know that bullying is happening.

- Help your child open up to you<sup>6</sup>, and listen to your child's concerns. Let them talk about their feelings without jumping in with opinions and advice.
- There is always strength in numbers. Encourage your child to talk to others at school who feel the same way that they do, and to swap ideas about what to do.
- Help your child to look at bullying in the same way as they would any situation in which someone might get seriously hurt. They would not consider reporting a small child who is about to cross a dangerous road as 'grassing', and bullying can be just as dangerous!
- Talk to your child about what they can do to support a child who is being bullied. Some ideas are to befriend the other child and be kind to them, include them in their games, tell an adult what is going on and, (if safe) get a group together to challenge the children who are doing the bullying.

 $<sup>^{6}</sup>$  Top Tips 3 from 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' offers more information on how to do this.

TOP TIPS: What to do if your child is (Top Tips 8) bullying others

- If you are told that your child is bullying others, stay calm.7 Don't immediately dismiss the idea ('What? My John - never!') or rush into punishing them severely. Try not to call them a 'bully' - a label can stick, and we are all capable of bullying others at times.
- Your child is not a monster! When you talk, stay calm and remind them that you love them - it is the behaviour that you do not like or approve of.
- Listen to what they have to say.<sup>8</sup> If they deny it, arrange to see the teacher. Stay calm and listen to what the teacher has to say - you might like to brush up on your conflict management skills before the meeting.<sup>9</sup>
- Talk to them about how the other person feels they may not realise how much they are hurting, frightening or upsetting the other person.
- Help your child to develop confidence<sup>10</sup>, to make friends happy people don't need to bully others!

 $<sup>^{7}</sup>$  Top Tips 13 from 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' offers more information on how to do this.

&lt;sup>8</sup> See 'Top Tips 3' from above pack <sup>9</sup> See 'Top Tips 4' from above pack

<sup>10</sup> See 'Top Tips 1' from above pack

Fascinating Fact ... Why do children bully?

Children who regularly bully others at the age of 8 are FIVE times more likely to end up in prison than those who don't....

Children bully because:

- they want to be 'in' with the cool gang
- it feels like fun they don't realise how much it hurts
- they dislike or are jealous of someone
- · it makes them feel powerful or respected
- · it gets them what they want (sweets, money)
- they are bullied themselves and are taking out their hurt and anger on someone who won't fight back
- they are having problems in their life that are making them feel bad

REMEMBER: People who are happy with themselves do not need to bully other people!

Cut Out and Keep Guide

Keep safe from cyber-bullying!

- 1. Always ask before you send a picture or information that could be shared with other people. Remember that you don't know what will happen to any pictures or information you let people have. What you think of as a joke might be really upsetting for the other person when the whole world sees it.
- 2. Think before you send a message about yourself or any other people involved. It doesn't take long for it to be shared with every single person you know (from your best friend to your grandmother to your worst enemy!).
- 3. Never give out personal information when it can be shared with others. You may trust your new friends, but you don't know his or her friends...
- 4. Treat your password like your toothbrush don't let anyone else use it!
- If you receive nasty messages, texts, comments etc., block the person sending them and always report it to an adult (a parent, someone at school, or your service provider).
- Don't reply to a bullying message but do keep it whether it is a picture, message or online communication. For more information see www. teachernet.gov.uk/publications.

A cut per and keep reminder to tell lines your child

Cut Out and Keep builds

Keep safe from cyber-bullyingl

Always ask before you send a picture or information that could be shared with other people. Remember that you don't know what will happen to any pictures or information you let people have. What you think of as a joke might be really upsetting for the other person when the aticle world execut

Think before you send a message about yourself or any other people involved. It doesn't take long for it to be started with every single person you know (from your least friend to your worst enemy!)

lever give out personal information when it can be thated with others. You may trust your new friends, be set thank the or lier friends.

Their your password like your too horush when the arvone case use it!

If you receive nostly messages, texts, comments etc., block the person sending them and always report if to an adult (a parent, someone at school, or your service.

Don't regist to a bullying message but do leep it - where it is a picture, message or online communication. For mainterfaction see were reacherest gay alt/publications.

Cut Out and Keep Guide Dealing with bullying by 'Fogging'

When people are horrible to us we want to be horrible back. The trouble with this is that we might get hurt, they might be even more unkind and we might even get into trouble (which is really not fair, but it does happen!).

Fogging can give us a way to stop the things the people bullying us might say from hurting us, and also can stop us from 'rising to the bait' (which lets them win).

Remember that the person bullying you is often saying things about you because of something that is wrong in their life. Or they may enjoy the fact that they can 'wind you up', especially in front of an audience. Often what people who bully like is the feeling of power they get when you react as they want you to. Fogging stops them from getting this pleasure, but doesn't put you in danger.

Fogging: How to do it

- · Remind yourself that
  - The person bullying you has said this to many other people what they say tells us more about them than you.
  - They want to see a good reaction take away the satisfaction!
- Imagine a great fog around you which swallows up insults so they cannot get under your skin.
- Use a normal, bored-sounding voice and say something neutral (that doesn't make them mad)

'yeah, whatever'
'if you say so'
'well, you could be right'
'maybe'
'ummm'
'yes that's true (e.g. I do wear glasses)'.

- Make sure your body language, tone of voice and the words you use all give the same message: 'I'm really not bothered by anything you say or do'.
- · Stick with it. It probably won't work the first time.

Helplines and websites:

www.childline.org.uk (tel: 0800 11 11) www.bullying.co.uk www.parentlineplus.org.uk (Tel: 0808 800 2222)

Out Out and Keep Suide-

fund people are harrible to us we want to be harrible back. The traviole life that we might get hurt, they might be even more unkind and the twen get into trouble (which is really not four, but it does happen!).

icing can give us a way to stop the things the people bullying us might something us, and also can stop us from insing to the bait (which lets in with ember that the person bullying you is after signing things about you also a something that is wrang in their life. Or they have anjoy the fast they can build you up, especially in front of an audience. Often appeals who built like is the feeling of power they get when you react say front you to. Tegging stops them from getting this pleasure, but it is would desired.

Fegging: How to do It

toolt lise way bridge

The person bullying you has said this to many other people they say tells us more about them than you.

they want to see a good reaction - take away the entistaction tione a great fog around you which swallows up insults so they can't under your skin,

Use a normal, bared-sounding valce and say something neutral (that occurs make them mad)

'if you say so wall, you could be right

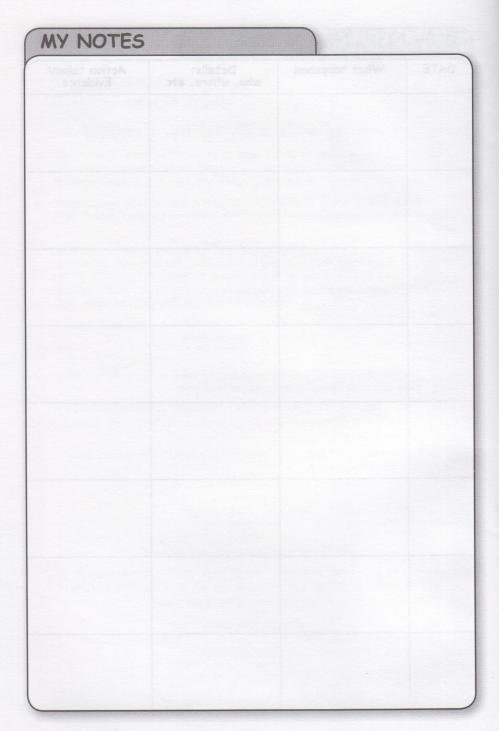

Zesazale now do T. p.s. sunt straft tav

Make sure your bedy language, tone of valce and the wards you use all give the some necessar I'm roully not bothered by anything you say or I stick with it. I'm probably won't work the first time.

Halpileas and securious:

in mage (felt 6800 ff ff) Capitic mage (felt 6808 800 2222)

DAT	E	Wh	at happened	Details: who, where, etc	Action taken/ Evidence
	Lo
	li be		s liabed to 226		s and named
			ontehts of ea		balgar
		117	New Degrees
					II
100	Tai			nd Falling ant Stening to your child
	11		Melang land
	192		Say no to be
		 	When to do	texar civild is being	- Uliver
			What to be I		flying is going on
			Miles to ex-		painers
100		4.	party for pr	torial
			riciping your for themselv		and responsibility
			- Establisher your
		s 11;	Taciffee and	skild te keep gehalt Hop parsistence and	of to bounce reclinence)
	200		blied to be
Top		# 3.3	Managing on	or Louis of China	3.7
	me		References
				Textings and to deal with in
				Service as a serie water 10.	ie auto 30 (20)
	THE STATE OF		Chemica	child to deal with ch
				CHECK IN COMPANY OF

This 'Say no to bullying' booklet forms part of a pack entitled 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack' which aims to support parents and carers in helping their children to become happy, confident and successful learners through practising and using the skills of SEAL at home.

Each booklet is linked to one of the SEAL themes, and named after it. The contents of each booklet are listed below:

Theme 1: New beginnings

Top Tips 1: Helping your child to feel confident Top Tips 2: Making and keeping rules at home

Theme 2: Getting on and falling out

Top Tips 3: Talking and listening to your child Making up after a falling out

Theme 3: Say no to bullying
Top Tips 5: Preventing bullying

Top Tips 6: What to do if your child is being bullied

Top Tips 7: What to do if your child knows bullying is going on

Top Tips 8: What to do if your child is bullying others

Theme 4: Going for goals!

Top Tips 9: Helping your child to take credit and responsibility for themselves

Top Tips 10: Helping your child to motivate themselves
Top Tips 11: Helping your child to keep going and to bounce back (to develop persistence and resilience)

Theme 5: Good to be me Top Tips 12: Being assertive

Top Tips 13: Managing anger (yours and theirs!)

Theme 6: Relationships

Top Tips 14: Dealing with feelings

Top Tips 15: Helping your child to deal with loss and grief

Theme 7: Changes

Top Tips 16: Helping your child to deal with change

National Anti-Bullying week takes place in schools every year in the late autumn. This booklet offers you, as parents and carers, the chance to understand what your children will be learning about bullying at school, and how you can support them at home.

Anti-Bullying week activities are linked by many schools to the SEAL theme 'Say no to bullying'. Like many parents, you may know that your child is doing something called SEAL at school, but be unsure about exactly what it is.

SEAL stands for the 'Social and Emotional Aspects of Learning' and takes the form of seven themes, the third of which is 'Say no to bullying'. All children in the school will explore these themes together over the course of the year, doing work on a common theme at a level appropriate to their age and development. All of the SEAL work that children learn throughout the year will contribute to helping them to understand and deal with bullying. For example, they learn

- To understand other people and take their feelings into account
- To respect and get on with other children and adults
- To see things from other people's points of view
- To sort out arguments fairly
- To take responsibility and stand up for themselves (without being aggressive)
- To make their own choices and not always 'go along with the crowd'
- To understand and deal with their feelings.

During Anti-Bullying week, children will practise using all of these skills and more to help prevent and deal with bullying in their school.

This booklet is one of a pack designed for parents and carers. The other titles are listed on the inside back cover of this booklet and can be purchased, as a complete pack entitled 'Supporting SEAL: The Parent Pack', through your child's school. 'The Parent Pack' is not a parenting manual. Instead it offers you, as parents and carers, a wealth of practical, doable ideas and information, linked to each SEAL theme, to support your child at home in becoming a happy, confident and successful learner

Julie Casey has worked in education for 25 years, winning 'Teacher of the Year' before becoming an Educational Psychologist. She has written a number of best-selling books for parents and teachers, and worked closely with the Department for Children, Schools and Families on many SEAL related initiatives. She has brought up her four children using the words of Maya Angelou (below) as a guiding principle:

> They may forget what you said They may forget what you did But they will never forget how you made them feel